Reading

Our stamina is getting so strong! We read 9 minutes this week! Our reading skill we worked on was sequencing and predicting what would happen next. Students practiced with the book Apple Trouble. Poor hedgehog got all sorts of things on his back. Ask your student to sequence the book for you! We also started Read To Someone!

Writing

We started learning about small moments (a piece of a story) and tried writing our own story. Find out what your student wrote about.

Math

This week we continued our counting unit and started comparing numbers. Students worked at centers to compare cards, compare dots, and worked on practicing $<$, $>$, $=$ signs.

Buddies

During buddies this week, we made scarecrows! Students are paired with a third grade buddies and will continue to work on projects with them throughout the year.

Library

Library books are due Fridays!

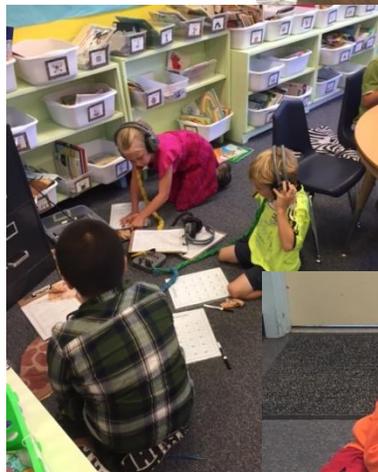

Volunteers

I have attached a schedule of volunteers. There are a few parents that said they would let me know their schedules so I haven't included them.

Upcoming Dates

October 1- Picture Day

October 8- Scholastic Order Due

September 25, 2014

Curriculum Night Recap

If you attended curriculum night then feel free to ignore this or do a quick scan of the page.

Curriculum Overview

I have sent home this with a letter written by your student that was on the desk Monday with a picture for the first day of school. This is for you to keep.

Donations

Class donations are really important part of our budget. We are charged per copy. Also, any book donations or buying from our scholastic order helps our class. Our classroom library was purchased from my graduation money last some and donations.

Birthday Snacks

We celebrate birthdays at 2:00 after third recess. This allows for our main curriculum to still get full time. I would like a heads up to allow time for students to bring in an alternative.

Volunteers

Volunteers will start the week of the Oct 5th. I will send out a calendar soon (its in draft mode) and you can let me know if it works for you!

Sharing

I sent home a calendar with your student or with you on curriculum night. Your child has sharing once a month unless they choose to trade in their points for another day.

Contact

Email is the easiest way to catch me. I read it through the day but I may not always respond right away. If your child's method of transportation home changes, please call the front office.

Class Website

My class website also has calendars and links on it for your availability as well.
